Description

An interactive Haiku series about writing haikus. It consists of 7 haikus that all link to each other in a big circle. That makes 8 pages in total including the landing page. Each haiku is linked together by a word that they both share. The shared word is what determines the placement of the haiku on the next page. Behind the shared word that will connect the current haiku to the next haiku will be a circle. I used CSS animations to blow up the circle to the size of the page after the user clicks the word and they're taken to the next page. Each haiku is accompanied by a simple illustration illustrating the poem.

Initial Sketches

My initial sketches are fairly representative of my final product. The main differences would be the placement of some of the elements. My illustrations are also different in the final project; they are made from ovals instead of organic shapes. Beyond that, the poems and illustrations are all fairly faithful to the original sketches.
